The law

Key words

break into, fake, invisible, techno-criminal, worthless

Reading

1 Read New crimes and answer these questions.

a What examples of old and new crimes does the writer give?

old crimes: theft / fraud new crimes: identity theft

b Why do criminals use the Internet to communicate with each other?

to pass on confidential information and plan crimes

New crimes

An area of the law which is changing very quickly in the modern world is the law related to computer crime. Increasingly, criminals are using computers to help them commit new crimes, like identity theft, and to make it easier to commit old crimes, like theft or fraud. Technological criminals may get into

5 computer systems to find out confidential information and use this to make money. Unfortunately, computer crimes are often more difficult to solve than traditional crimes because the criminals are invisible and their actions may be impossible to prove. It can also be 10 difficult to prosecute a computer criminal successfully because usually nothing is actually physically stolen or damaged.

A particular factor in the growth of computer crime has been the increase in the number of ordinary people who use Internet
15 websites to buy things, to book holidays or to access their bank accounts in order to transfer money or pay bills. This new type of business has attracted techno-criminals who may order goods and services without paying, or break into the computer systems of businesses or financial organisations and either move money to their own account or send viruses which can seriously 20 damage computers and the information they contain. These viruses can affect millions of people worldwide.

Computers with Internet connections can also be used more safely by criminals than face-to-face meetings or telephone conversations to pass on confidential information or to plan crimes. In addition to this, computers 25 allow criminals access to millions of people worldwide who they may persuade to pay for something worthless or to support a fake charity organisation.

2 Read the article again and match each beginning a–d with one of the endings 1–5. You do not need to use one of the endings.

- a Criminals may make money1.....
 b The fact that actual things are not stolen by computer criminals3.....
 c Many people all over the world can be affected2.....
 d For criminals who want to plan a crime, using the Internet is5.....
- 1 ... by using confidential information they have found on a computer.
 2 ... if viruses are left on computers.
 3 ... makes it more difficult for police to prosecute them successfully.
 4 ... not as secure as communicating on the Internet.
 5 ... safer than telephone conversations.

3 Match these words a–f from the article with the meanings 1–6.

- a confidential4.....
 b fake6.....
 c identity theft2.....
 d prosecute1.....
 e solve a crime3.....
 f transfer5.....

- 1 to accuse someone of a crime and try to prove it in a law court
 2 crime of stealing someone's personal details
 3 to discover who commits a crime
 4 secret / private
 5 to move from one place to another
 6 not real

4 Complete these sentences with words or phrases from the article on page 4.

- a Identity theft is a computer crime which uses a person's information, usually for financial gain.
 b It is difficult to indict computer criminals because usually nothing is actually stolen or physically damaged
 c The increasing use of Internet websites is one of the factors which are causing the growth of computer crime

- d Techno-criminals are able to fabricate a fake charity organisation or even get people to pay for something worthless

5 Answer the following questions.

- a Why is computer crime on the increase?
Computer crime is on the increase because the number of people who use Internet websites, to buy things, to book holidays or to access their bank accounts, is growing.
 b What makes computer crime more difficult to solve than traditional crime?
Computer crime is more difficult to solve than traditional crime because criminals are often invisible and their actions may be impossible to prove c Is there any law in Kuwait that protects Internet users from computer crimes?

Writing Expressing opinions in an essay

1 Read this student's essay and put the four paragraphs in the correct order.

a3.....

Another result of people spending too much time at their computers is that their health suffers. Sitting for long periods of time can hurt their eyes, cause headaches or damage their hands and arms. In some cases this means that people cannot do their jobs properly.

In my opinion, the main disadvantage is that people may spend so much time on their computers that they see less of their friends and family. Children who spend too long playing computer games may become unsociable and forget how to communicate normally with other people.

c4.....

There is no doubt that computers are here to stay. Some jobs and many leisure activities would be impossible without them, but we should be aware of the possible dangers of spending too much time at our computers.

d1.....

Today, more and more people in Kuwait are using computers for activities at home, at school or at work. Such is the demand that the government has launched a 'digital awareness programme' to train hundreds of thousands of employees in IT skills. Many people use computers at home too, writing letters, searching the Internet or just playing games. It is a great thing that Kuwait has embraced modern technology so successfully, but in this essay I am going to consider two disadvantages of computers.

2 What question was the essay writer answering? Choose A, B, C or D.

- A In what situations do you think computers are most useful?
- B What has been the impact of computers in Kuwait?
- ☒ C What problems or dangers are associated with using computers?
- D From your point of view, what are the advantages of computers?

Migration

Key words

instead, periodic, plenty of, swallow

Reading

- 1 You are going to read an article about why animals migrate at certain times of the year. Which is the best definition of the verb migrate?

- move somewhere to find work The correct definition is travel to live in a warmer place (move somewhere to find work refers to people who migrate from one country to another; sleep during the winter is a definition of the verb hibernate)
- sleep during the winter
- travel to live in a warmer place

- 2 Read the article and answer these questions.

- a Why do some animals migrate northwards in summer and southwards in winter?
The days are longer in the north in the summer - so food is more readily available. In the south it is warmer in the winter. There is also more food.
- b How do animals know where to go when they migrate?
Two theories : animals have a compass in their head / they use the sun and stars

Animal Migration

Migration has captured the interest of humans for centuries. Ancient civilisations had many myths to explain the periodic appearance and disappearance of great numbers of animals. For instance, they believed that tiny birds, called swallows, buried themselves in the mud at the bottom of lakes to get through the winter. Instead, scientists found out that swallows fly all the way from Europe to Africa and back in one year. Perhaps the truth was harder to believe than the myth.

- When we talk about animal migration we mean the movement of an animal from the place where it has been living to a different place and the return journey to that animal's original home. Most animal migrations are regular events which happen at certain times of the year. Animals usually migrate to find food or to raise their young.

- Incredibly, most migrating animals follow the same route every year and from generation to generation. Land animals may cross mountains or rivers, while birds and insects travel very long distances, sometimes across continents and oceans. Fish and other sea creatures may migrate halfway round the world. For example, the grey whale can travel as much as 20,000 kilometres.

- Many animals migrate to northern regions during the summer, because the long summer days mean that there is always plenty of food. In the autumn, when the weather gets colder, many animals migrate south to find food and warmer weather. Some animals migrate every year, doing the two journeys in one year, but others migrate only if they need to, for food or warm weather.

- Many scientists think that animal migration is part of the process of adaptation. Those animals which have learned to move to find better environments are those which have survived by adapting to their situation. Nobody is quite sure, however, how animals know where to go when they migrate. There are two theories: firstly, some experts believe that animals have a kind of 'compass' inside their head. Others have suggested that they may use the sun and stars to help them find their way.

3 Read the article again. Are these statements True (T) or False (F)? Justify your answers.

- a Migrating animals do not return to their original homes. ☐

False. They do return.

- b Most animals migrate to escape from their enemies. ☐

False. Most animals migrate to find food and raise their young.

- c Many animals migrate at the same time every year. ☐

True. Animal migration is a regular event.

- d Animals make the same journeys as their parents did. ☐

True. Animal migration happens in the same way from one generation to another

- e Many animals migrate to the south in the summer. ☐

False. They migrate to the north in the summer.

- f Some scientists believe that migration has helped certain animals to survive. ☐

True. Animals which have moved to better environments have been most successful 4 Find words in the text which mean almost the same as ...

- a something that people wrongly believe to be true myth (paragraph 1) b to manage to deal with a difficult situation to get through (paragraph 1) c first original (paragraph 2) d a living thing / animal creature (paragraph 3)
 e to remain alive survive (paragraph 5) f to change in order to suit a different situation adapt (paragraph 5) g an idea or belief about something theory (paragraph 5)
 h a device for finding your way compass (paragraph 5)

5 What do these words from the text refer to?

- a they (line 4) ancient civilisations
 b which (line 11)
animal migrations

- c those (line 23)
the animals
 d Others (line 26)
experts
 e them (line 27)
the animals

6 Tick the statement that can be inferred from the text.

- a Animal migration is a problematic issue that scientists need to find solutions for. ☐ b Animal migration is a natural process that has to happen so that animals keep surviving. ☒ c Some animals don't migrate because they can adapt to any environment. ☐
 d There are lots of different types of migration. ☐

7 Make a summary of paragraphs 2-4 of the text on page 10, expressing coherently what migration is, why animals migrate, as well as how, when and where.

migrants	obliterated

The word (1) migration has acquired negative connotations. It is used to describe people escaping wars, (2) famine, poverty and natural disasters. Some people believe that (3) migrants enjoy welfare benefits, while making only (4) minor contributions in return. However, many people leave secure homes and jobs for an uncertain life in (5) foreign lands, where they (6) seek a better understanding of people of different races and different faiths. That's certainly how Islam sees migration. And migration is of (7) major importance since the Islamic calendar, the Hijra, begins with the migration of the Prophet Mohammed, peace and blessings be upon Him, from Makkah to Madinah. From Islam's earliest days, Muslims have (8) migrated to distant lands, bringing with them learning, scholarship, culture and cuisine.

to protect and assist people in hardship and to provide their basic human needs

c Why do you think these actions are carried out by an NGO, rather than the government?

Students' own answers

THE KUWAIT RED CRESCENT SOCIETY

The Kuwait Red Crescent Society is a voluntary humanitarian society that provides assistance to vulnerable people, without discrimination based on nationality, ethnicity, gender, race, colour or beliefs. The society is an independent organisation that often works in conjunction with the government. As a recognised charity it works both within and outside Kuwait.

The aims of the KRCS are to protect and assist people in hardship, and in doing so, to ensure the provision and protection of basic human needs such as health care, water supplies and sustenance. The society is a manifestation of the great compassion and empathy that people are capable of.

The first meeting of the Kuwaiti Red Crescent Society was held in December 1965. In this meeting the basic organisational structure of the foundation was agreed upon. The Kuwaiti government approved the foundation of the KRCS, officially declaring the organisation a legal non-governmental organisation (NGO) on January 10th, 1966. This approval also allowed the KRCS to become part of the international network of Red Crescent societies, thereby enabling them to work more effectively in conjunction with their sister bodies.

The KRCS depends on youth groups and volunteers to carry out many of its activities and programmes, particularly those related to fundraising. The volunteers support all the other committees by providing manpower and funds, without which the KRCS would be unable to operate. These volunteers are motivated by compassion and the desire to assist others in need. They work without the expectation of reward or praise and gain satisfaction from the knowledge that they have helped their fellow human beings.

After brief training periods, during which volunteers receive first aid training from the Ministry of Health, the volunteers are deployed wherever they are needed. Within Kuwait, their work includes distributing food and aid to needy families and participating in awareness-raising activities in schools and universities. Outside Kuwait they provide basic health care assistance, and some even participate in rescue operations with specialist teams in the aftermath of natural disasters.

COMPASSIONATE VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

Sometimes, the modern world feels like a place without humanity. Natural disasters, war, disease; all these things take a toll on human life and happiness. We do not believe this needs to be so.

- 5 From feeding hungry children in famine - stricken Africa to lending a helping hand to struggling families throughout the Middle East, the Kuwait Red Crescent Society is just one part of a global network dedicated to improving and protecting the lives of thousands of people throughout the world. Through projects as diverse as well 10 building, disaster relief, health education and food supply, the members of the KRCS work tirelessly to ease the suffering of the world's most needy people. But they cannot do this alone.

- KRCS relies upon the compassion and financial support of thousands of volunteers and donors to continue its important mission. Without these kind-hearted people we 15 could help no one. Our volunteers work countless unpaid hours to raise awareness and funds, to provide services to old people, hospital patients, disaster victims and anyone else in need.

- Most of our volunteers don't talk about their work. They don't expect any compensation for their tireless efforts. For them, the chance to help others, to restore 20 the smile to a child's face, and to change someone's life for the better, is the real reward.

If you think you could help the KRCS, whether through donating a small portion of your income or donating your free time, please come and see us this weekend at our offices in Kuwait City.

2 Answer the following questions.

- a What words or phrases does the writer use to gain the reader's attention and create compassion?

a place without humanity / feeding hungry children / lending a helping hand / protecting the lives of thousands of people / restore the smile to a child's face

- b What words does the writer use to describe volunteers and the members of the KRCS? Can you think of any others that could be used?

work tirelessly / compassion / kindhearted

- c In the last paragraph, why does the writer use the phrase 'donating your free time'?

to make a link between donating through financial support and donating one's own time

3 Now, using the words and phrases you identified in exercise 2, plan and write your own advert for volunteers. It could be for the KRCS, for a specific humanitarian project, or for a different charity of your own choosing. Your advert should be about 200–220 words long.

- b What are most soya beans used for?

to feed chickens

- c Why are the rainforests being destroyed? (four reasons are given) to grow soya beans / to make land for cattle to look for oil / for valuable wood

Feeding chickens is destroying the climate

The rainforest of the Amazon region of Brazil in South America covers five per cent of the world's land surface and is home to at least 30 per cent of the world's animals and plants. The area is also the home of 220,000 people from about 180 different tribes who live in the forest. The rainforest itself is an important environment but, because of its size and location, it also plays a vital role in controlling the world's climate. It does this by taking in carbon dioxide and turning it into fresh air.

Recently, however, large areas of the Amazon rainforest have been cut down to make more land for farmers. In the last three years, for example, 70,000 square kilometres have been destroyed – this is the same as six football pitches every minute. Much of this destruction, which leaves the land dry and dusty, is illegal.

Farmers use most of the new land to grow soya beans, which they export to other parts of the world to be used as animal food. Millions of chickens in Western European countries are fed on South American soya beans. Increasingly, some soya beans are also being turned into food for human consumption; many vegetarian foods are based on soya beans.

Other areas of the rainforest are cleared by ranchers who use the land for their cattle, by loggers who sell the valuable tropical hardwood from the trees they cut down, or by oil companies who are trying to find more oil. These activities help to improve the economy of the region, but at the expense of the future of the global environment.

In addition to destroying ancient forests and changing the world's climate, deforestation is having a devastating effect on the native populations, who are dependent on the rainforest for everything they need, from food and tools to medicines and shelter.

3 Read the article again and match each beginning a–f with one of the endings 1–7. You do not need to use one of the endings.

- a Nearly a third of the world's animals and plants ...4..... b The rainforest has an important influence on ...7.....

1 Complete the paragraph about climate change with the words from the box below. There is one extra word.

permanently amount occurring killed off Consequently increasingly with the result that alter have resulted

There is a scientific agreement on climate change that human activity is the main explanation for the (1) increasingly rapid changes in the world's climate. (2) Consequently, international debates have largely shifted onto ways to reduce human impact and adapt to change that is already naturally (3) occurring. Humanity's largest influence on local climate is likely to (4) have resulted from land use. Irrigation, deforestation and agriculture fundamentally change the environment. For example, they change the (5) amount of water going into and out of a given location. They also influence the ground cover and (6) alter the amount of sunlight that is absorbed. For example, there is evidence to suggest that the climate of Greece and other Mediterranean countries was (7) permanently changed by widespread deforestation between 700 BC and 1 AD, (8) with the result that the modern climate in the region is significantly hotter and drier.

Paper: new from old

The first paper was made from cloth nearly two thousand years ago in China. Although paper can be made from all kinds of materials, such as cotton fibres, grass and sugar cane, these days wood pulp is the material most commonly used to make 'new paper' – paper which

- 5 contains no old or recycled paper.

The modern world uses so much paper that environmentalists have persuaded us that we should recycle old paper as well as making new paper. There is considerable awareness in Kuwait of the need to recycle waste, including paper. As a wealthy and modern state, Kuwait is a major user of paper, but is looking to address this by building recycling centres, with one partnership between a major private company and a university being an example of this.

- 10 Although we use wood pulp from trees to make new paper, it is not entirely true that recycling paper saves trees. Trees are a commercially grown long-term crop, so that when they are cut down, new ones are planted. Also, papermakers use the parts of trees that cannot be used in other industries such as building and furniture making. Nearly all new paper is made from wood grown in sustainable forests.

Here are some of the facts related to producing recycled paper:

- A large proportion of household waste is paper or cardboard. About half of this is newspapers and magazines.
- 20 • For every tonne of paper used for recycling, we save 30,000 litres of water, 3000-4000 kwh of electricity, and produce 95% less air pollution.
- Recycling paper is less harmful to the environment than burying it in landfill sites. This is because if paper is buried in the ground it rots and produces methane which is a powerful greenhouse gas.

- 25 Despite our increasing dependence on information stored on computers, there will always be a demand for paper. In the interests of our environment, we have to make sure that we continue to recycle as much of it as possible.

4 Read the article on page 32. Are these statements True (T) or False (F). Justify your answers.

a All paper is made from wood. ☐

False. Paper can be made from various different materials

b We should recycle old paper and stop making new paper. ☐

False. We should recycle as well as make new paper because the modern world uses so much paper.

c Recycling paper saves trees. ☐

False. When trees are cut down for making paper, new ones are planted.

d Most household waste is paper or cardboard. ☐

True. About half of it is newspaper and magazines.

5 Read the article again and complete these sentences with words or phrases from this list. You do not need to use two of the words or phrases.

air pollution greenhouse gas household waste tonne materials sustainable forests environment

a Cotton fibres, grass and sugar cane are some of the materials that can be used to make paper.

b Trees used for making paper are grown in sustainable forests, which means that new trees are planted to replace ones which are cut down.

c About 50% of the paper and cardboard in household waste is made up of newspapers and magazines.

d Burying paper in landfill sites does more damage to the environment than recycling it.

e Using one tonne of recycled paper saves 3000-4000 kwh of electricity.

Percentage of Materials Recycled

City of Norman

A -----

This report studies the percentage of materials recycled in the city of Norman in the years 1996 and 1997.

B -----

- 2% of all metals were recycled in 1996 and 1% in 1997.
- 4% of glass was recycled in 1996 and 3% in 1997.
- 1% of plastics were recycled in 1996 and 0.5% in 1997.
- 5% of paper was recycled in 1996 and in 1997.
- 1% of other materials were recycled in 1996 and in 1997.

C -----

The figures show that the percentage of materials which were recycled has decreased in 1997. It's a bad sign, proving that people are losing their enthusiasm for recycling.

D -----

With reference to the results of this bar chart, environmentalists should use awareness - raising campaigns in order to highlight the importance of recycling.

Venus flytrap

It may seem very strange, but plants are always in danger from animals which want to feed on them. If this happens, the plant can be damaged or even killed. So, because their roots, trunks, leaves, flowers, fruits and seeds are under constant attack from mammals, insects and birds, plants have developed ways of protecting themselves from these enemies. Here are 5 some of the ways plants stop animals from attacking and eating them.

Sharp thorns and stings

Some plants which grow in dry climates, for example cactuses, store large quantities of water in their stems. To protect themselves, they have sharp thorns. Animals will hurt themselves if they try to get to the water from these plants. Other plants, like stinging nettles, can 'inject' painful or irritating substances into their enemies by means of the sharp hairs on their leaves.

Poison

10 There are many plants which protect themselves by poisoning their enemies. In some cases the poison they contain is so powerful that it can kill any living thing which touches or eats them. The poison can be in the leaves, the seeds or berries, and other parts of the plants.

Insects

Some acacia trees in hot African countries are protected by ants which live permanently on their branches. If an animal starts to eat the tree's leaves, the ants attack it.

Sticky gum

15 Some plants, such as horse chestnut trees, are covered with a sticky substance like wet paint which can prevent insects from eating them. Sometimes this substance is so strong that insects' feet or wings get stuck and they cannot escape.

Carnivorous plants

The most incredible plants of all are 'carnivorous' plants like the famous Venus flytrap, which actually catch and consume insects which land on them.

- 1 Read this essay on the pros and cons of land reclamation. Is the writer of the essay for or against land reclamation? The writer of the essay is neither for nor against land reclamation.

The arguments for and against land reclamation

Many governments have started to take land from the sea or from marshes in order to create farmland, housing, resorts and even shopping centres. This process is known as land reclamation. Such schemes are popular because they create idyllic settings, such as the Palm Islands in UAE, and are amazing engineering achievements. However, some people believe taking land from the sea is wrong and actually has an adverse effect on the world. In this composition, I will discuss some of the arguments for and against land reclamation.

I will start by considering two arguments in favour of land reclamation. First of all, many people view land reclamation as a vital procedure for continuing human development. There are many places in the world where the population exceeds the ability of the land to sustain it. In these places, taking land from the sea alleviates issues such as overcrowding and sanitation and increases human contentment. Secondly, some countries are unable to produce enough food to feed their populations. Therefore, governments take the decision to drain swamp and marshland in an attempt to create new agricultural areas. This process alleviates hunger and has other positive effects, such as helping to reduce populations of disease-spreading insects like mosquitoes.

I will now move on to the arguments against land reclamation. The main objection to reclaiming land is that it disrupts local environments. The damage that can occur, for example to coral reefs and other underwater habitats, has profound effects upon the oceans. There are many threatened species that rely on rare habitats, or which only live in one area, and any changes to their surroundings can have devastating consequences. Even land reclamation projects that drain swamps can adversely affect species such as rare migratory birds.

Personally, I do not have strong feelings about land reclamation. I believe that such procedures can help to alleviate problems in cities and improve our quality of life, but I also think it is wrong to unnaturally alter and destroy eco-systems simply so people have a pleasant place in which to live, shop or visit.

- 2 Read the essay again and make a note of the phrases the writer uses to structure the essay and to present his or her ideas. Example: In this composition, I will discuss some of the arguments for and against land reclamation.

..... In this composition, I will discuss ... / I will start by considering ... / First of all, ...
 / Secondly, ... / Therefore, ... / I will now move onto ... / Personally, ... / I believe ... / I think ...

Greenhouse gases: good or bad?

We usually think that greenhouse gases are harmful, but without these gases the climate of the Earth would be like the climate of Mars:

(1) too cold for human beings to survive. Greenhouse gases, which include carbon dioxide and methane, keep the heat of the sun in and prevent our planet (2) from freezing.

However, (3) for the last 200 years people have (4) been using enormous quantities of fossil fuels like coal, gas and oil. When these fuels are burnt, they produce large amounts of carbon dioxide and

(5) this keeps more of the sun's heat in.

The result is that the temperature of the Earth (6) is rising year by year. This is leading (7) to more extreme weather: high winds and heavy rain which produce storms and flooding.

The problem is made worse by the fact that we are destroying the world's rainforests. Trees naturally consume carbon dioxide, but

(8) because there are fewer trees, more carbon dioxide is released into the atmosphere.

Because (9) of the increase in the Earth's temperature, the ice at the north and south poles is melting, and this is causing sea levels to rise. Eventually, many areas of land which are now (10) on the coast will

(11) be flooded. Leading scientists are warning that (12) if the authorities don't introduce new laws to reduce greenhouse gas increases now, the results could be disastrous for life on Earth.

2 Read the article again. Are these statements True (T) or False (F)? Justify your answers.

a Without greenhouse gases human beings couldn't live on Earth. ☐ True. Greenhouse gases keep the heat of the sun in.

b Human beings have been using fossil fuels for more than two hundred years. ☐ True. They've been using fossil fuels such as coal, gas and oil.

c The temperature of the Earth is increasing because the sun is getting hotter. ☐ False. The temperature of the Earth is increasing because more of the sun's heat is being kept in by greenhouse gases.

d Flooding is an example of extreme weather. ☐ False. Flooding is the result of extreme weather like high winds and heavy rain.

e Trees and forests produce greenhouse gases like carbon dioxide. ☐ False. Trees and forests consume carbon dioxide.

f Sea levels will rise if the ice at the poles melts. ☐ True. When the ice melts, its water flows into the sea, and thus the sea level rises.

g Scientists want every individual on Earth to take immediate action. ☐
False. Scientists want authorities to take immediate action.

3 Choose the right answer.

a The main idea of the text is:

- 1 Greenhouse gases are harmful.
- 2 Using fossil fuels affects the temperature of the Earth.
- 3 People are destroying a lot of trees.
- 4 Even though greenhouse gases are needed on Earth, their increase may lead to a catastrophe.

b prevent means

- 1 stop 2 change 3 try 4 present

c released means

- 1 gave 2 caused 3 emitted 4 reduced

Compare your table with those of three other students. How similar or different are your sleeping habits?

Why is sleep important?

- 1 How much sleep do you need each night? Are you getting enough sleep? What is the importance of sleep? The rest of this article will give some useful information and advice.
- 2 Exactly how much sleep we need depends on several factors, including our age, our daily routine, the quality of our sleep and our genetic make-up.
We know that most adults need about 8 hours' sleep a day, but this number can vary greatly: "short sleepers" may need only 5 hours, whereas "long sleepers" may need 9-10 hours. Babies need about 16 hours a day while many teenagers need an average of 9 hours.
- 3 How do we know if we are getting enough sleep? In general, if you feel drowsy during the day, you need more sleep. You may think that you are sleeping for long enough, but these are some of the signs that you may need more:
 - you cannot concentrate at school or at work;

- you find it difficult to get up in the mornings;
- you are moody or irritable;
- you have memory problems.

4 So why is it important that we get enough sleep? According to the National Sleep Foundation (NSF), sleep is essential for a person's health and wellbeing. First, sleep helps the brain retain new information in one's memory. In studies, people who had slept after learning a task did better on tests later. Second, people who are deprived of sleep might gain weight because their bodies would process and store carbohydrates and alter levels of hormones that affect their appetite. Third, sleep loss contributes to a greater tendency to fall asleep during the daytime. These lapses may cause falls and mistakes such as medical errors, air traffic mishaps and road accidents. Finally, chronic sleep deprivation alters the immune system, including the activity of the body's killer cells.

5 How we sleep also affects us. When we fall asleep, our sleep can be deep and restful or light and shallow. Shallow sleepers awake still feeling tired, while deep sleepers wake up refreshed.

 e Your immune system would be affected if you weredeprived of..... sleep. (2 words)

5 Look at the article again. Are these statements True (T) or False (F)? Justify your answers.

- a The article gives information but no advice. True: None of the information in the text is advice. For example, the text doesn't tell you how to ensure better sleep.
 b We do not all need the same amount of sleep. True: Several factors affect how much sleep we need.
 c Factors that affect the amount of sleep we need include the colour of our hair and where we live. False: Sleep is affected by our age, our daily routine, the quality of sleep and genetic make-up.
 d If you feel very lively during the day, you probably need more sleep. False: If you feel tired during the day you probably need more sleep.
 e Most teenagers need about nine hours sleep per night. True: Many teenagers need 9 hours sleep a night.

Enjoy your food and stay healthy

A Exercise you'll enjoy - 2

Are you getting enough exercise? Most people these days agree that regular exercise is an important part of a healthy lifestyle, especially for people who spend most of their time at work sitting in offices. Some people find exercise boring so they make excuses to avoid doing it but, in this article, I am going to suggest a few types of exercise which everyone will find enjoyable.

B Enjoy your food and stay healthy - 3

How healthy is your diet? In the modern world experts frequently tell us that what we eat affects how healthy we are and how long we live. But most people like food and want to eat the things they enjoy. In this article I am going to suggest how you can eat the food you enjoy and still have a healthy diet.

C Thinking is good for you - 1

One of the factors which affect how long people live and how much they enjoy their old age is "brain activity". Scientists have shown that people who keep their brains busy tend to live long, happy lives compared with those who do not. In this article I am going to suggest some interesting and enjoyable ways in which you can keep your brain active.

Town and country

Key words

contentment, crown jewel, demarcation, skyline, vertical village

Reading

1 Before reading the article, Silk City, match these words a-f with their meanings 1-8. There are two extra meanings.

- | | | |
|----------------|---|--|
| a crown jewel | 7 | 1 to separate or distinguish |
| b inception | 5 | 2 the outline of buildings defined against the horizon |
| c demarcate | 1 | 3 the infrastructure of a city |
| d traverse | 8 | 4 carefully and precisely |
| e meticulously | 4 | 5 the establishment or starting point of something |
| f skyline | 2 | 6 the process of designing something |
| | | 7 a prized asset or achievement |
| | | 8 to travel across or through |

2 Read the article and answer these questions.

- a Why is the city being built?
To establish Kuwait as a commercial hub and to provide housing and jobs.
- b How will the population of Madinat Al-Hareer be kept happy?
To ensure their happiness, people will always be near water or greenery.
- c What is exceptional about Burj Mubarak Al-Kabir?
It is 1001 metres tall / 200 storeys / houses seven 'vertical villages'.

Silk City

Madinat Al-Hareer, otherwise known as Silk City, is an innovative solution to the problems facing Kuwait. This $130 billion project will result in the construction of a new city, combining residential, financial and commercial districts. Taking its name from the ancient silk routes that traversed Kuwait, the ultimate aim of the project is to establish

- 5 Kuwait's status as a commercial hub of the world, whilst providing habitation and a desirable lifestyle for the proposed city's 700,000 residents. The city will also create around 450,000 new jobs.

The city, which is to be built in Subiya, north of Kuwait City, will be a unique city because its layout has been completely and meticulously planned from its inception. In this way, its growth will be less 'organic' than other cities, which often add housing and businesses as needed, but will benefit from clear demarcations between residential, financial, commercial, and leisure areas. The design is not simply about creating new living places, but creating an architectural space that induces contentment and well-being. The city is going to be built with its residents in mind and features large expanses of greenery along with all the normal amenities people in the modern world have become accustomed to. In fact, to guarantee the residents' happiness, the city is designed so that you will never be more than three blocks away from a garden or water.

- The crown jewel of Madinat Al-Hareer will be the Burj Mubarak Al-Kabir. This tower, which will stand at 1001 metres and 200 storeys high, will house the equivalent of seven 'vertical villages'. This imposing construction will dominate the skyline, and is just one example of the ways in which modern engineering allows designers to overcome the constraints of limited land.

3 Use the words in the box taken from the article to complete the following sentences.

innovative habitation crown jewel residential financial amenities

- a The residential area is where people live.
- b Banks and other similar institutions can be found in the financial sector.
- c The local amenities include parks, swimming pools and other leisure areas.
- d Despite being in constant use, the building showed little sign of habitation
- e The new transport system is extremely modern and innovative
- f The new tower will be the crown jewel of this huge city.

4 Choose the correct answer with reference to the article.

- a Which of these statements about Silk City are NOT true?
 - 1 Every aspect of Silk City has been designed and thought out carefully.
 - 2 The city will house 700,000 people.
 - 3 The only aim of the city is to establish Kuwait as a major commercial hub.
- b Which of these statements about Silk City is true?
 - 1 Water and plant life are used to create a pleasant environment.
 - 2 The 'inorganic' design of the city will be oppressive.
 - 3 Residential, financial and commercial buildings are combined in each sector.

c What is the best definition of 'organic' as used in the text?

- 1 something related to, or derived from, living matter
- 2 characterised by continuous and natural development
- 3 a description of food produced without the use of pesticides and unnatural fertilisers

d What is the best definition of 'vertical villages'?

- 1 the equivalent of several residential areas within a tall building
- 2 the equivalent of several villages aligned
- 3 the equivalent of several villages on an upward slope

5 Look back at the article on page 54. Summarise the differences between Silk City and other modern cities. Use bullet points.

Reading

1 Read the title of the article below and answer the following questions.

a Do you know anything about Bayt Lothan? If not, what can you infer from the title?

Students' own answers

b Do you know of any other old buildings serving new purposes?

Bayt Lothan: an old house serving new purposes

Located in Salmiyah, several kilometres south of the centre of Kuwait City, Bayt Lothan, or the house of shelter, is one of Kuwait's best known traditional coffee houses. Every day, people gather there to drink coffee, eat food and socialise in the tranquil open garden.

However, Bayt Lothan is more than just a coffee house. It also has an impressive history. The word 'lothan' means shelter. It was the original name of the area in which the house stands, so called because it was a place where ships could take refuge from storms. Today, Bayt Lothan provides a shelter in which human creativity, arts and crafts may flourish. Once built, Bayt Lothan became a residence of Sheikh Sabah Al-Salem Al-Sabah, the twelfth Amir of Kuwait. Now, the building acts as a centre and a sanctuary for the arts, and stands as testament to the changing uses of a building over time.

Covering over 4000 square metres, Bayt Lothan also houses an impressive art gallery and a successful community centre, which specialises in teaching art in both traditional and modern forms. Much of the space within the site has been transformed into workshops for arts, crafts and design. The site also provides a platform for artists and craftsmen to exhibit and promote their designs and artistic works. Workshops and lessons are held in the centre, with subjects as diverse as jewellery design and clay pottery being taught. The new and old mix seamlessly in these sessions, as contemporary photography is taught in parallel with Arabic calligraphy and manuscript decoration.

The directorship of the Bayt Lothan project also reflects the history of the site and the changes that have occurred over time. The project is now directed and managed by Sheikh Sabah Al-Salem Al-Sabah's daughter, Sheikha Amal Sabah Al-Salem Al-Sabah.

There are also many events held at the centre, such as exhibitions of new Kuwaiti artists, and it's always great to go and see what's happening in Kuwait's burgeoning art scene. You can also take classes to learn new skills yourself. Who knows, one day you might end up with your own exhibition at Bayt Lothan!

Grandson: What do you mean, Granddad?

Granddad: Well, for one; there weren't as many cars.

Grandson: Wow! I don't think I'd have coped with that. What did you do if you wanted to see your friends?

Granddad: All our friends lived nearby. We didn't have the Internet and most people didn't have a telephone, so it was hard to stay in touch with people a long way away, but we were used to it. Knowing everyone nearby made people friendlier. I think people have less respect these days Grandson: What about me?

Granddad: Ha ha! I didn't mean you, of course.

The purpose of the other recommendations at the end is to suggest alternative books that may interest the reader if they liked The Pearl

1 Read the book review below. What is the purpose of the other recommendations at the end?

The Pearl by John Steinbeck

The Pearl (1947) was the 17th of 27 books published by the prolific American writer, John Steinbeck. Many of his most renowned books take place against a backdrop of real social situations in the American West of the 1930s, 40s and 50s. When Steinbeck won the Nobel Prize for literature towards the end of his life, in 1962, the awarding committee stated that Steinbeck was being honoured for his 'realistic and imaginative writing, combining as it does sympathetic humour and keen social perception.'

The Pearl, however, is in some respects an atypical work. Although it is based on a real story that Steinbeck actually heard in La Paz, Mexico (where the novella is set), the story is not told in an especially realistic way. As Steinbeck himself wrote, the story he originally heard in La Paz was 'so much like a parable that it almost can't be.'

The Pearl tells of Kino, a poor Mexican fisherman who lives in a simple dwelling on the beach with his wife Juanita and his infant son Coyotito. One day, the baby is stung by a scorpion and Kino takes him to a doctor, who refuses to treat Coyotito because Kino has no money to pay for the treatment. Kino takes his canoe along the seashore, looking for a pearl valuable enough to pay for the treatment that Coyotito needs. He is astonished to find the biggest and most perfect pearl he has ever seen. At the same time, Coyotito appears to recover somewhat. Kino and Juanita believe they are about to become rich, and begin to imagine a wonderful future for themselves and their baby son. However, news of their discovery travels fast, and many of their neighbours become envious and try to think of ways of taking the pearl from Kino, so as to become wealthy themselves. People try to cheat Kino, but he refuses to sell the pearl for a low price.

Kino is attacked, and his canoe and home are destroyed. He and his family have to flee. Coyotito becomes feverish again. Another group of men attack them to try to take away the pearl. Poor Coyotito dies. At last, Kino and Juanita realise that the pearl is not bringing them wealth or success, but is leading to endless trouble. So they return home and throw the pearl back into the sea from where it came.

The Pearl is a moral story that teaches us that we should learn to be satisfied with what we have, instead of striving for wealth or power. Despite its lack of realism, the narrative is told with great tension, suspense and flair. The pearl comes to symbolise the lure of the material world, together with the fear and darkness that lie behind a materialistic view of life. Overall, the story is a wonderful illustration of the dangers and consequences of greed.

Other recommendations

If you enjoyed this story, you will probably also like some of Steinbeck's other books, such as Tortilla Flat (1935), Of Mice and Men (1937), East of Eden (1952). You might also enjoy Ernest Hemingway's The Old Man and the Sea (1952). If you develop an interest in Steinbeck's life, there is a good biography of him by Jay Parini (1996).

2 a What positive and negative descriptive words and phrases does the reviewer use to describe the book? positive: moral story, great tension, suspense and flair, wonderful illustration negative: not told in an especially realistic way, lack of realism

b How is the review structured? Paragraph 1: Introductory information about the author Paragraph 2: The origin of the story, The Pearl

Paragraphs 3-4: Summary of the plot of the story Paragraph 5: Conclusion, including reviewer's opinion of The Pearl c Is the review generally positive, negative or mixed? Give examples.

Generally positive, but with a few minor negative remarks. (See answer to a above.)

3 Now, using the cues on the page, write your own review of a book you recently read. You should write 200-220 words.

1 Complete the article below with words from this list. Use each word only once.

but can from got has me my of so to used was

City or Country?

- I was born in the country, and for the first eighteen years of (1) my life I lived there. My family's farm was in the middle of nowhere, five kilometres (2) from our nearest neighbours and ten from the nearest school, shops and post office. As a child, I enjoyed life in the open air, but when I was eighteen I went (3) to university and couldn't believe how incredible city life (4) was. In comparison with my life on the farm, my new life was exciting, challenging and very varied. I (5) got to know a lot of new people and I went to many places. (6) of course everything moves much more quickly in the city, and that (7) can sometimes be stressful, but at least you know you're alive. In the country, you sometimes forget!
- 10 Obviously, city life (8) has its disadvantages, like the noise, the traffic and the crowds of people, but these things don't worry (9) me too much. I don't drive, (10) so traffic problems and parking difficulties don't affect me. It only takes me ten minutes by taxi. I can get to the supermarket in a few minutes, whereas in the old days, in the country, a shopping trip (11) used to take half a day.
- 15 Maybe I'll want to go back to the peace and quiet of the country one day, (12) but for now I'm enjoying the hustle and bustle of city life.

2 Read the article again and answer these questions.

- Where did the writer live as a child?
on a farm in the country, in the middle of nowhere
- How far did he have to travel to go to school?
ten kilometres
- Why did he first move to the city?
to go to university
- How was his life different when he moved to the city?
His new life was exciting, challenging, and very varied. He got to know a lot of new people and went to more places.
- What disadvantage of city life does the writer mention?
It can be stressful (noise, traffic, crowds of people).

3 Choose the correct answer from the article above.

- The word that in line 8 refers to ☒ 1 everything moving more quickly. ☐ 2 the city. ☐ 3 the country.
- The expression the hustle and bustle in the last line means ☒ 1 liveliness. ☐ 2 mess. ☐ 3 happiness.
- One can infer from the article that the writer
☐ 1 would prefer to live in the country for the rest of his / her life.
☒ 2 is satisfied with city life despite all its disadvantages.
☐ 3 finds the city to be the perfect place to live in.

Record-breaking attempts

Pros	Cons

Steve Fossett – a record-breaker

In 2002, Steve Fossett became the first person to travel solo round the world in a hot air balloon. His balloon, The Spirit of Freedom, used a mixture of helium and hot air and was 42 metres tall by 18 metres wide. To keep it at a constant altitude, the balloon used a sophisticated autopilot system controlled by a computer.

- 5 Fossett commenced his journey in Western Australia, travelled east to South America, over the Southern Atlantic Ocean towards South Africa, then over the Indian Ocean to reach Australia. This record-breaking solo journey took 14 days, 19 hours and 50 minutes. Fossett only slept for four hours in every twenty-four hour period and never slept for more than 45 minutes at one time. He frequently had to leave his tiny cabin for the sub-zero exterior
- 10 in order to check that the balloon's burners were working properly. By the time he arrived in Australia, he had travelled 33,195.10 km and broken the world speed record for a manned balloon flight, achieving at one point a speed of 322.2 kmh. Steve Fossett was especially pleased with this successful round-the-world journey as it was his sixth attempt. His first attempt had been six years earlier, in 1996.
- 15 One previous attempt, in August 1998, had almost ended in disaster when Fossett's balloon was sucked into a thunderstorm off Australia's Northeast coast. The capsule plummeted 30,000 feet into the sea but also caught fire, igniting the balloon's propane burners. Fossett managed to escape through a submerged hatch and clambered aboard his life raft. He was rescued by a boat 10 hours later.
- 20 Steve Fossett held four other world records for non-stop journeys round the world as a sailor and as a solo air pilot. Before Steve Fossett's record attempts, no pilot held world records in more than one class of aircraft. Fossett held them in four. His other achievements include the Absolute Altitude Record for Gliders when he flew at 50,727 feet. For the attempt he and his co-pilot wore full pressure suits. Before his death, Fossett had
- 25 succeeded in setting 116 records in five different sports. Fossett was declared legally dead on 14th February, 2008 just over five months after a plane he was flying crashed.

2 Read the article and choose the correct answer to the following questions.

- a Steve Fossett was declared legally dead in ...
- 1 September, 2008.
 - 2 February, 2008.
 - 3 September, 2007.
 - 4 November, 2007.
- b Why did Fossett wear a full pressure suit during his Absolute Altitude Record for Gliders attempt?
- 1 to cope with the psychological stress of the record attempt
 - 2 to cope with the reduction in atmosphere
 - 3 to show his sponsorship
 - 4 to keep warm
- c What is the main message of the text?
- 1 Steve Fossett escaped a downed balloon
 - 2 Steve Fossett died in a plane crash
 - 3 Steve Fossett set many impressive records
 - 4 Steve Fossett was a rich man

3 What do the following phrases taken from the article mean?

1 Read this interview and answer the following questions.

- a Is Dave Stokes upset about his injuries? What advice does he give?

No, he's not. He advises the reader to be prepared, take a medical kit and a mobile phone, tell people where he is going and not to push himself or herself too much.

- b Can you think of any other ways to stay safe whilst doing extreme sports?

Students' own answers

Interviewer: Hi everyone, and welcome to another edition of XTreme Sports Weekly. Today, we're interviewing extreme sports enthusiast Dave Stokes from his hospital bed. Hi Dave, and thank you for agreeing to do this interview.

Dave: No problem.

Interviewer: Well, I guess the question everyone wants to ask is: how did you do this to yourself?

Dave: I was climbing in the Alps with a friend but unfortunately I slipped and fell. Although I didn't fall too far, I landed badly and broke my leg and wrist.

Interviewer: Ouch, that sounds painful!

Dave: Yes, it was, really. But it's part of the territory when you're into extreme sports.

Interviewer: What do you mean?

Dave: Well, all of the activities I love, such as snowboarding, parachuting and mountain climbing, have an element of danger to them. You always run the risk of getting hurt, or worse.

Interviewer: Will this injury make you reconsider your chosen sport?

Dave: No, definitely not. It'll take me a while to recover but, as soon as I'm fit and able, I'll be back on the mountain. I may be just a little bit wiser, though.

Interviewer: In what way?

Dave: I think I'll be more safety-conscious in the future, possibly take fewer risks and spend more time preparing.

Interviewer: Can you give our viewers any advice about the dangers of extreme sports?

Dave: Sure. Firstly, make sure you are prepared. You'll always run the risk of injury, so always take a medical kit and a mobile phone with you. Secondly, tell people where you are going in case anything bad happens. Most importantly, don't push yourself till you're ready. I've seen lots of people hurt because they've tried something that's much too difficult for them.

Interviewer: Thanks a lot for talking to us, Dave. I hope you recover soon.

Dave: Thanks. I'm sure I'll be scaling mountains again in no time.

Reading

1 Before reading the article about Venus, answer the following questions.

- a Venus is called 'the morning star' or 'the evening star'. What would you call the Earth?

 Students' own answer
- b Do you think that someday human beings will be able to live on the planet Venus? Why or why not?

The Morning Star

- A Venus is the brightest object in the sky with the exception of the Sun and the Moon. However, it is only perceivable from the Earth three hours before sunrise and three hours after sunset. For this reason 5 people have given Venus the epithets 'the morning star' and 'the evening star'. It is the second planet from the Sun.
- B Because the surface of the planet is completely obscured by clouds, it is very difficult for scientists to study Venus from the Earth, so the vast majority of 10 our information about this planet comes from spacecraft. The first flight to investigate Venus was by Mariner 2, which the Americans launched in 1962. The most significant information comes from probes, which the spacecraft dispatches to scrutinise the surface of the planet. A probe is a small spacecraft that documents information and transmits it back to Earth. The Russians have 15 also sent spacecraft and probes to Venus.
- C Some people contend that Venus is the Earth's sister planet because there are many similarities between the two. They are comparable in size and are approximately the same age. However, there is also much contrast between Venus and the Earth. Venus is devoid of oceans and has a very heavy 20 atmosphere, 96.5% of which is composed of carbon dioxide. Because the atmosphere is so heavy, Venus has an extremely high surface temperature (459 °C). A Venusian day is equal to 243 Earth days. This is longer than its year, which is equivalent to 225 Earth days.
- D On June 8, 2004, Venus passed between the Sun and the Earth.
 25 People witnessed a large black spot moving across the Sun. The previous time this occurred was in 1882.

2 Read the article and choose the correct answer.

- a The article The Morning Star is 1 scientific.
 2 fiction.
 3 non-fiction.
- b It is difficult for scientists to study Venus because 1 it is too far away.

Kuwaiti inventors return from award ceremony in Geneva

Director of the Kuwait Foundation for the Advancement of Science (KFAS), Ali Al-Shamlan, applauded on Monday the achievement of the Kuwaiti inventors at Geneva's International Fair for Inventions. He said their winning the Oscar of the Fair was a historic and unprecedented achievement for Kuwait.

The Kuwaiti inventor, Ahmed Al-Hashash, received the Oscar of Geneva Invention Salon for his Airbag Equipped Attire for Motorcycle Riders. Al-Hashash, in addition, received the gold Medal of Honour.

A second Kuwaiti inventor, Sadeq Ahmed Al-Qassem, received a gold medal for his Light Indicator System (LIS), which alerts drivers as to exactly how close they are to other drivers ahead of them.

Deputy Chairman of the Science Club of Kuwait, Eyad Jassem Al-Kharafi, praised the achievement of Kuwaiti scientists in the Geneva Invention Salon and noted that this achievement was the result of encouraging young people in Kuwait to be creative. He noted that the recipient of the Oscar and gold medallist were sponsored since the age of 10 by the Kuwaiti Science Club, and acquired their skills through years of training there. Al-Kharafi thanked the Kuwait Foundation for the Advancement of Science for its support of Kuwaiti inventors participating in the Geneva Salon of Inventors.

In addition to the two inventions, Kuwait presented a third invention for Kuwaiti inventor Abdullah Al-Yateem, made up of an electrochemical reactor which could make use of sewage water to produce electrical energy.

The 33rd Geneva Invention Salon is a leading invention forum where 42 countries sent 1,000 inventors to display their inventions this year.

The final challenge

Until 1953, nobody (1) had climbed Mount Everest, the highest mountain in the world. Then in 1953, the British mountaineer Edmund Hillary and the Nepalese guide Tenzing Norgay succeeded (2) in reaching the summit. In the next thirty years there were other Everest 'firsts', including the first solo climb, and the first climb (3) by a woman.

All these people had taken bottles of oxygen (4) to help them climb, but many mountaineers wanted to climb using their natural ability, without oxygen. Two of these (5) were Reinhold Messner and Peter Habeler. In 1975, they amazed people by climbing Gasherbrum, the 11th highest mountain in (6) the world, without oxygen.

When Messner and Habeler started planning to climb Everest without oxygen, other climbers called (7) them foolish. They warned that the oxygen levels (8) at the top of Everest were so low that breathing would (9) be difficult, and that the men would risk brain damage if they did this climb. However, Messner and Habeler did (10) not listen, and made their first attempts in April 1978. After two failures, they nearly gave up, but decided to make a final attempt.

At these very high altitudes, with little oxygen in the air, everything the men did took much longer (11) than normal. Every few metres, they fell down exhausted and had to rest. Eventually, at about 2 p.m. (12) on May 8th 1978, Messner and Habeler became the first men to reach the summit of Everest without oxygen.

2 Read the article again. Are these statements True (T) or False (F)? Justify your answers.

- a The first woman climbed Everest before 1953. ☐
False. The first woman climbed Everest between 1953 and 1975.
- b Until the mid-1970s all mountaineers had used oxygen when they were climbing. ☐
True. In 1975 two men were the first to climb a mountain without oxygen.
- c Other climbers advised Messner and Habeler not to risk climbing Everest without oxygen. ☐ True. Other climbers considered it foolish to climb without oxygen.

3 Answer the following questions.

- a What was Messner and Habeler's first achievement in mountain climbing?
Messner and Habeler's first achievement was climbing Gasherbrum without oxygen.
- b How many times did they try to climb Everest?
They attempted to climb Everest 3 times.
- c Why did it take Messner and Habeler a lot of time to reach the summit?
It took Messner and Habeler a lot of time to reach the summit because the lack of oxygen meant they kept falling down in exhaustion.
